

COA

Keep in Touch Booklet 2010

November, 2010

Dear recent alumna/us,

We miss you! While we may not see you frequently on campus, you will always be part of the global community of COA alumni. We are sending this booklet to highlight the myriad ways you can stay connected to the college. It serves as an outline to multiple services — all available to you as a COA alumna/us. Whether you are taking advantage of resources available to you or acting as a resource for the college, we hope you will cherish your new role as an alumna/us.

We trust that your friendships with students, staff, faculty and fellow alumni will continue as you celebrate the value of your COA education. Some alumni have found the transition from being a student to that of being an alum awkward. We hope your COA relationships and the information in this booklet will ease that challenge. The community of COA alumni can be a valuable resource for networking and support.

We are always excited to hear how human ecologists from COA are making their way in the world, whether the path is direct, winding or about to branch in a new direction. Please keep in touch and share news of your life and your journeys with us.

Best wishes,

Mike Staggs '96

COA Alumni Association

So, you thought governance and committee work for COA ended after that last ACM you attended? Not so — you can still be involved in the tradition of adding your voice and making a difference in the College of the Atlantic community, as a member of the COA Alumni Association.

Founded in 1982, the COA Alumni Association (COAAA) promotes the welfare of College of the Atlantic and maintains a mutually beneficial relationship between COA and its alumni. COAAA supports and provides communication between the college and its alumni as well as among its members.

COAAA and the Alumni Relations and Development Office work together to foster communications, facilitate connections among alumni and bring resources to the college through special events, including the reunion weekend, newsletters, phone-a-thons, volunteer recruiting and website presence.

As a member of COAAA you have the right to vote at the annual meeting of the Alumni Association each April and nominate yourself or others to serve on the governing board. In addition to setting goals for the coming year, the annual meeting has made decisions regarding the organization's bylaws and policies.

For more information about the community of COA alumni and College of the Atlantic Alumni Association, please visit www.coa.edu/alumni.

Regional Alumni Networks

Camaraderie, shared vision, great stories and common understandings are all celebrated when COA alumni get together. Alumni find they are inspired and grounded when they connect with one another. Groups in the following regions are engaged in getting together for social, educational, and community service activities. If you are relocating, the COA Alumni Network can be a good resource for learning about a new community.

We are expanding our Alumni Networks; please contact us if you are interested in volunteering to develop a group in your area. Call or email Dianne Clendaniel, alumni relations and development coordinator, to get connected to any of the groups below or to start one in your region.

Office of Internships and Career Services

The Office of Internships and Career Services is a resource available to alumni throughout every stage of career development and life work. Whether you are looking for your first job, making a career transition, or considering the continuation of your education, the Office of Internships and Career Services can assist you. All career services are free of charge.

Resources include:

- comprehensive career and labor market information
- cover letter and resume assistance
- graduate school guidance and application assistance
- relocation contacts
- one-on-one career counseling (in person or by phone)
- a searchable database for jobs and internships

Another resource is the Alumni Mentorship Program. Through this program, we can assist you in contacting alumni who may be helpful in:

- the job search process
- expanding your professional network
- sharing information about graduate programs
- offering support and advice

A mentor is anyone interested in being a resource to both current students and fellow alumni. Learn more about participating, or sign up online www.coa.edu/alumni-mentor.

To schedule an appointment or obtain more information about the Office of Internships and Career Services resources and services, please contact Jill Barlow-Kelley, director of internships and career services.

Reunions and Events

The alumni weekend at COA, when all alumni are invited back for celebration, commemoration, conversations and fun, takes place in the fall. The weekend is filled with receptions, film and art openings, dancing, outdoor activities, and many opportunities to see fellow alumni, COA faculty, staff and current students. You can join the parties, exhibit, perform or volunteer.

The Alumni Association hosts an annual winter solstice party in Bar Harbor with dinner, music and a bonfire. Welcome back the light with alumni from all eras of the college.

Many alumni return for commencement. You may appreciate another perspective of our distinctive ceremony and enjoy honoring friends and new graduates.

Alumni are invited to the senior cocktail party to welcome graduating seniors to the COA community beyond campus. The invitation is also extended to join in the annual the tug-of-war fundraiser. The time has come for an alumni challenge to the reigning team!

Convocation is always a special occasion to kick off the new academic year. Alumni are invited to welcome new students and hear a fellow alum speak at the ceremony. Perhaps you will dare to dive in for the Bar Island Swim, but even if you choose not to take the plunge, you are welcome to the community picnic.

We also plan additional events and regional gatherings for alumni throughout the year. If you wish to stay connected, celebrate and learn with us, please be sure we have a current address and email. Invitations are always sent electronically and many have a paper follow up.

Contact Dianne Clendaniel, alumni relations and development coordinator, to learn more about reunions and events, to propose new ideas, to volunteer to help organize these activities, and to keep your information current.

For more information visit www.coa.edu/alumnievents.

Alumni Admission Volunteers

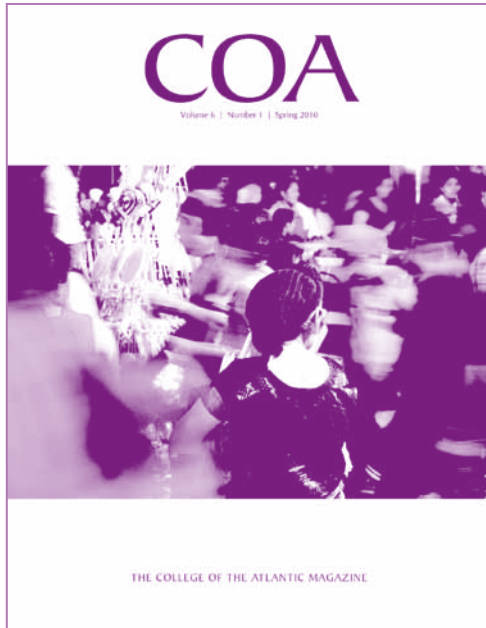

As an alumna/us, you know personally about the distinctive education offered at COA. Alumni Admission Volunteers assist the Office of Admission in attracting bright, creative, passionate students. As a volunteer within this network of alumni, you can help COA reach a broader range of potential candidates and provide additional personal contact to prospective students as they navigate the admissions process.

Prospective students gain a deeper understanding of life at COA when they can connect with someone who has experienced it firsthand. By meeting with prospectives in your area you will represent the larger COA community while supporting a more sustainable and resourceful approach to the admissions process.

If you are interested in representing COA at college fairs, interviewing prospective students, or speaking with parents of applicants, please contact Andrew Moulton, admission counselor and alumni admission volunteer coordinator. We also welcome learning of new schools or organizations whose students might resonate with a COA education.

We appreciate any conversations you have about COA that may help inform or influence a possible future student. As an added incentive, if you introduce a student to COA and serve as a reference for that student we will waive their application fee. Please be sure to talk about your COA experience with friends and neighbors and wear your COA t-shirt proudly. And if you need a COA t-shirt, Andrew can help you with that too!

COA Magazine

COA, College of the Atlantic's magazine, is published twice each year. Featuring essays, short stories, artwork, poetry, photography, it is meant to be a kaleidoscopic portrait of College of the Atlantic. In it you'll find articles by and about current students, faculty, and alumni, along with class and community notes, and an ongoing history of the college.

COA is written entirely by the COA community and welcomes your submissions. Donna Gold, director of public relations, is your contact at dgold@coa.edu, or 207-801-5623. Please send your poems, short stories, art work, article ideas — and should you be so moved, a revisit of your human ecology essay in 600 words or so. What does human ecology mean now that you have graduated?

Additional Alumni Services

The Peregrine

Sent throughout the year, this electronic newsletter features submissions from alumni, including articles, op-ed pieces, poetry and other reflections.

You can also read updates from the Alumni Association, news from campus, and announcements of interest to alumni. If you haven't received an e-newsletter, sign up on the website www.coa.edu/alumnienewsletter or email dclendaniel@coa.edu.

Alumni Website

Visit www.coa.edu/alumni and find links for transcript requests, news, events, volunteer opportunities, a directory of alumni and more. The website is a doorway into learning more about alumni services.

Campus Events

You are welcome to attend the variety of events on campus, including plays, music, lectures, gallery openings and other fun opportunities. Check out the online calendar of events at <http://calendar.coa.edu>. If you would like a weekly email of campus events, please send that request to dclendaniel@coa.edu

Classes

Your COA education doesn't need to end with receipt of your diploma! You can audit or enroll in more courses at COA. To audit a class, contact Darlene Nolin, assistant registrar. If you prefer to receive credit for the course, contact Donna McFarland, associate director of admission, to apply as a special student at dln@coa.edu or 207-801-5677.

COA Videos Online

Want to hear Karen Waldron, Ken Cline or other faculty presentations? Wishing you could have attended convocation? Watch video from special events, John Visvader's human ecology forums, alumni speaker series and more through Vimeo or YouTube, www.coa.edu/coa-videos or iTunesU www.coa.edu/i-tunes-u. For more information about COA videos, contact Zach Soares '00, library media specialist, at zsoares@coa.edu, or 207-801-5663.

Summer Programs

This summer we will pilot a symposium for alumni. Look for more information on this opportunity to engage with faculty and fellow alumni. We also offer a 20% discount to alumni who participate in field-based summer courses for teachers and other adults, or Family Nature Camp - a week-long learning vacation for the entire family. For more information, visit www.coa.edu/summer or contact Heather Albert-Knopp '99, director of summer programs at halbert-knopp@coa.edu or 207-801-5635. Want to have your wedding or special event on COA's oceanfront campus? Contact us for details about special rates for alumni.

Email

You can keep a life-long “@coa.edu” email address.

Facebook, COA Tribe & LinkedIn

Join hundreds of other alumni in the COA Alumni and COA Community groups on Facebook.

The COATribe Yahoo! Group is a means for discussion, news and communication among alumni. You can network about careers, professional development, and human ecology in action on LinkedIn’s College of the Atlantic group.

Library

Alumni are welcome to use the library and databases on campus anytime it is open. Discounted rates for Interlibrary Loan are extended to alumni, and those living in Hancock County may acquire a library card for borrowing. The library staff is happy to talk with you about any special needs you may have. Please contact Jane Hultberg, director of the library, at jhultberg@coa.edu or 207-801-5660, or Trisha Cantwell Keene, associate director of the library, at tcantwell@coa.edu or 207-801-5661.

Don't Get Lost

We don't want to lose our connection to you. Stay in touch. As an inquisitive and passionate human ecologist, your life is likely to take several twists and turns. Send us updates on your life changes and choices — wherever they may take you.

Let us know when you start a new job, earn a degree, receive awards, start a family or move. When you stay in touch, we can keep you current on news about the college, invite you to events, send you COA's magazine, connect you to other alumni and help you network with others in your field.

You may use one of these methods to update your personal information:

1. Phone: 207-801-5624
2. Email: dclendaniel@coa.edu or alumni@coa.edu
3. Website: www.coa.edu/alumni and click on update your contact information (The website provides a directory for graduates of the college; you can find contact information about your peers here.)

We love to hear from alumni and wish to work with you on building and celebrating a global community of COA!
